Art Unit: 1745

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 48, 51, 58-65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hershberger et al.-US 5,977,746. (Hershberger)

Reference is made to Figures 1 and 2 of Hershberger along with the Abstract and column 3, line 35 through column 4, line 65. The first portion of the housing comprises the floor of member 24 while the second portion is the upper “floor” of top housing 26-the uppermost portion of 26 on which the first latching mechanism 45 including a button is located. The floor of member 24 is connected to at least two walls as seen in Figure 2 while the peripheral vertical portions of 26 comprise at least two walls. It is also noted that the second floor could be member 74 in Hershberger with the third and fourth walls being two of the walls making up member 26 as seen in Figure 1. Because the housing in Hershberger can be utilized in any angular position, the recitation of the direction of the cells is met by this battery pack being used in many different angular positions.

Applicant’s arguments have all been considered but are not deemed persuasive. Applicant argues that member 26 in Hershberger could not constitute a floor. The examiner respectfully disagrees. One of the definitions of floor as submitted by applicant is "a ground surface". Member 26 is certainly a ground surface. Another definition given is "a lower limit" or a "base". Member 26 of Hershberger also is a lower limit and can qualify as a base thus meeting the definition of a floor. Further evidence that member 26 is a ground surface is that the latching mechanism is located on the floor 26 thus making 26 a ground surface or a lower limit or a base. In any event, with the additional interpretation of the second floor in Hershberger being member 74 and with the arguments presented in this paragraph, the patent to Hershberger includes dual floors as claim 48 recites.

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 48-65 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-16 of U.S. Patent No.

Art Unit: 1745

6,641,950. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims in the present application and the recited patent are not non-obvious in view of each other. The present application does not set forth in some of the claims the dual button/latch system as does all of the claimed subject matter in the 6,641,950 patent. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art at the time the invention was made to have included the dual button/latch of the noted patent in the present battery pack of the present application because the same element is encompassed and hence rendered obvious by the claims in the 6,641,950 patent. To have included an additional button with the dual latch in the present application as taught in the above noted patent would have been obvious to allow for quicker release of the battery pack from the electrical apparatus.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

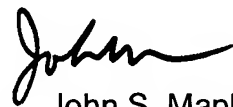

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
